HEBER J. GRANT REPLIES TO ROSE

Designated as Hireling of Anti-Prohibitionists

LEAVES FROM LAWYER'S DIARY

AT TIMES MR. GRANT BECOMES
VEHEMENT ON THE AB-SORBING QUESTION.

Salt Lake City, June 5.—Almost the entire session of the M. I. A. conference yesterday afternoon was occupied by Elder Heber J. Grant on the general subject, "What June 27th, 1911, Means to Utah." He delivered some telling blows against the theater speech of former Mayor Rose of Milwaukee, whom he designated as a hireling of the anti-prohibitionists, the element that works for the saloon. But for the restraining traditions of the tabernacle in the matter of applause, there would have been many demonstrations on the part of the large audience to show their approval of what Elder Grant said.

Elder Grant said in part: "I am glad that the 27th of June was selected as the day on which the people of the state are to decide the liquor question. It was the day on which Joseph and Hyrum Smith gave up their lives to show what they were willing to do for the truth. It should be the day when the Latter-day Saints will show that they are willing to cast a vote for the right, no matter what interests may be on the other side.

"It is to be regretted that some places in Utah otherwise dry are now compelled, owing to the pernicious interference of the saloon elements, to vote on the question. Petitions have been circulated by them, signed by 25 per cent of the voting population, and passed up to the commissioners, asking for an election. And many of these signers were obtained by false representations as to the purpose of the petition. But, however, that may be, we are forced now to decide the matter at the polls.

"Josh Billings says that a man is not to be judged by relatives he has, for they are shovels on him and he cannot help it; but he is rather to be judged by the company he keeps, for these he chooses. If this test be applied to men and women so far as this question of temperance is concerned, some are to be counted as liars, because they have elected the company of such and have placed themselves on the side of liars and betrayers of the best human interests.

An Old Lawyer's Diary.

Elder Grant read copiously from a favorite book of his, "Leaves from the Diary of an Old Lawyer," according to which certain facts appear in a striking light. This "old lawyer" had practiced 30 years and had pleaded in some 4,000 cases, some 3,000 were due to strong drink. So he judged that nearly all the crimes committed in our country are due directly or indirectly to liquor. "And yet they tell us," Elder Grant interjected, "that it pays to have saloons." According to this lawyer, too, 49 of these cases which he pleaded were murder cases.

"Think of it," Elder Grant went on, "a son of yours being led to commit a crime which will prevent him from salvation by the drink habit! When it comes home to us in this way, we sometimes see the evils of drink in a clearer light."

The speaker then took up the Rose address in the theater, and indirectly

MINISTERS ARE HALF-HEATED

Vote Against Liquor, But Have
No Real Views

SEEM TO BE UP AGAINST IT

IF I WERE A BREWER I WOULD VOTE FOR PROHIBITION
SAYS ONE.

Salt Lake City, June 5.—The Herald-Republican says: "Judging by the resolution adopted yesterday by the Salt Lake Ministerial association an organization which includes practically all the Protestant ministers in the city with the exception of the Rev. Dr. Elmer I. Goshen, pastor of the First Congregational church, the pastors of the city churches are more or less in doubt whether they favor the elimination of the evils of the liquor traffic by regulation or by prohibition and are doubtful as to which method is the lesser evil.

Not only the language of the resolution, but the statements made by the ministers themselves, emphasize the fact that they do not consider a vote for "dry" at the election on June 27 at all effective in exterminating the liquor traffic in Utah, and this latter is the mark at which the ministers declare they desire to aim when they shoot.

The resolution adopted by the ministers is as follows:

Whilst his ministerial association carefully refrains from any public utterances concerning matters purely political, in view of the fact that the vote to be taken in this city June 27 is ostensibly on the single issue of prohibition of the liquor traffic on the one hand and on the other the open saloon, regulated by the law enacted by the late legislature, we therefore declare ourselves unalterably in favor of the extermination of the liquor traffic in Utah."

In remarks later, several of the ministers who voted for the resolution let it be known that they did not consider that the mere fact that the city voted "dry" at the election on June 27 would exterminate the liquor traffic in Salt Lake, and it was commented upon by several who would not permit the use of their names in that connection that the resolution did not indicate whether the members favored a step towards the extermination of the liquor traffic by voting for the regulated saloon or for extermination of prohibition. They appeared to take the view that under the law it would be impossible to exterminate the liquor traffic, although it would be possible to close the regulated saloons.

Merely Step Toward Prohibition.

"Prohibiting the saloon and permitting breweries and distilleries to operate does not mean prohibition. The adoption of the prohibition law, as set forth by the last legislature, may only be regarded as a mere step toward prohibition, and confessedly experimentally so," said the Rev. R. J. McNiece, dean of Westminster college, last night.

"If I were a brewer, I would certainly vote in favor of the prohibition law. It would help to give me a monopoly. The prohibition law to be voted on does not mean that the liquor traffic will be exterminated. In our resolution we recommend the absolute extermination of liquor," stated the Rev. C. R. Neel of the First Christian church.

"Though the prohibition law might be regarded as a meagre half loaf being better than none at all, its adoption

POOR AUDIENCE TO SEE GILMORE

Through oversight mention of the two elegant plays given by Paul Gilmore Friday and Saturday was not made. "The Mummy and the Mummified Bird" Friday night was a splendid lesson play and one which only Gilmore can present. In the part of the studious Lord Lumley one sees the actor in a character so much different to what they have been accustomed to seeing him, i. e., his romantic roles, such as Captain Bebonair, King Charles and D'Artagnan in the Three Musketeers, and one wonders at the remarkable versatility of the man. The company which he has with him is a very strong one. The Bachelor Saturday night was something a little out of the ordinary, but was tellingly presented. The attendance at both plays was miserable in the extreme. One could spend a whole column in eulogy of Paul Gilmore and his action, but when his name will not draw a better attendance than those of Friday and Saturday nights, one is forced to give up in disgust.

Death of Victor Paulsen

Victor Paulsen, the seventeen year old son of Dr. and Mrs. P. M. Paulsen died at the family residence at 5 a. m. Tuesday, June 6. The boy had been ailing for some months, but no one had expected the sudden passing away. Deceased was the younger member of the family and the only child living at home. His older brother and sister who live in Portland, Ore., have been wired of the death and will come to Logan at once to attend the funeral which will be held in the First ward hall in the Stake Tabernacle Sunday at 12 p. m.

ONE MORE DAY LEFT TO REGISTER

Those who have not registered will only have one more day in which to do this, namely Friday, June 23rd. Yesterday very few people went out to perform this function, and unless they do so they cannot vote. The following is the law on the subject:

"In order that the difference of opinion which appears to exist as to who are qualified to vote at the coming special election (June 27), will state that section 53, chapter 166 session laws of Utah, 1911, very clearly provides that all persons who are qualified to vote at the last city or town election (7909), whether they voted or not, and have not changed their place of residence since the last general election (1910), will be qualified to vote at the coming special election.

"And all persons who were qualified to vote in the various districts of the county unit, whether they voted or not, and have not changed their place of residence since the last general election (1910), will be qualified to vote at the coming special election.

"In preparing the official register for the various election districts of Salt Lake county, this office has assumed that all persons whose names appeared on the copies of the official register used at the last city, town or general election, as stated above, were qualified voters, whether they voted or not.

"All voters who registered in Salt Lake City last fall, prior to the general election, will have to register again in order to vote at the coming special election."

EX-MAYOR ROSE TO SPEAK AT PAVILION

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Thatcher Pavilion, the people of Logan and Cache county generally, will have a rare opportunity of hearing the Hon. David S. Rose, ex-mayor of Milwaukee in his famous talk on "Temperance Not Prohibition." Mr. Rose who served the people of Milwaukee as mayor for five consecutive terms has made, perhaps the most extensive study of the subject of the liquor traffic, or any man in the United States today and is at present touring the west, giving all who are interested the results of his study and experience free of charge. Mr. Rose is a fluent speaker and coming to Logan as he does in the season when the subject of his talk is foremost in the minds of the people, assures him a large and attentive audience.
